of a committee appointed to expend a fund raised by citizens of North Bakota for the purchase of a statue of Mr. Roosevelt. Some weeks ago Mr. Hanna wrote Col. Roosevelt asking him to indicate his wishes in the matter.

A reply came to the effect that Col. Roosevelt disapproved of the erection of statues to living men; that he believed that statues should not be erected to the memory of any man until he was long dead, but that if "old friends around Medora were determined to honor him he would interpose no objection.

Word came here yesterday that Col. Roosevelt while in Christiania, Norway, had complied with a suggestion made by Mr. Hanna that he pose for Gustave Vigilard, the sculptor whom his North Dakota friends had designated to do the work.
